Lebanon, 1958. A civil war rages.

A young mother and model wife, Layla, spends the summer with her family in a remote village in the Christian mountains.

It's wedding season but her two younger sisters, Eva and Nada, have no desire to follow in Layla's footsteps by accepting an arranged marriage organized by their father, a broke feudal aristocrat.

This summer, an encounter with a French guy and his mother opens Layla's eyes on her condition as a woman living in a patriarchal society, where female fates are decided by men – fathers, husbands, and even sons. For the first time ever, Layla suddenly stifles.

Paris, far from the popular tourist spots.

Twenty-three-year-old Mia is already struggling to make ends meet when she finds out she's pregnant. A manicurist by day, she spends her nights at parties, introducing her nail spa customers to VIPs. But things go south when a rising football star gets one of her customers pregnant. Mia's hands are tied: in exchange for a large sum of money, she is to persuade the young woman to give up the child.

But just how far is she prepared to go?

Based on the true story of Yazid Ichemrahen and his biographical book 'Rêve d'un enfant étoilé,' on how patisserie saved his life.

Ever since he was a little boy, Yazid has dreamed of becoming a pastry chef. Moved from one foster home to another, nothing predestined him for such a career. Yazid's indomitable determination and resourcefulness have proven priceless in helping him succeed in the elitist arena of patisserie.

Working for the world's top chefs from Paris to Monaco, he strives to become the best and to fulfill his dream of winning the international pastry championship.

The future of a primary school in a Parisian suburb is under threat when a brand new, fancy school springs up right next door. Principal Zahia fears she'll lose what little social diversity she has left. She decides to team up with Marion; a young and inexperienced but committed teacher.

Together they plan to turn their endangered establishment into the very first suburban green school to attract the new local residents.

To pull it off, they will have to work with a team of shall we say... eclectic characters, most of whom aren't exactly green friendly!

Brieuc and his friends' school cafeteria is being remodeled. To their great dismay, their teacher Aude takes them to the nearby nursing home to spend their lunch breaks. The head caretaker Yannick is not so happy to see them invade his residents' territory.

A generation clash seems inevitable. Who will declare war first: the residents or the guests?

But shared interests and a series of comical situations spawn true friendships among the lonely geriatrics and the boisterous school kids. It's clear that this new arrangement is a growing experience for one and all.

Based on Gilles Legardinier's bestseller 'Complètement Cramé !'

When Mr. Blake turns up at the Domaine de Beauvillier estate, everyone – the manor itself, along with its owner and staff – are all just as badly off as he is!

But unlike Mr. Blake, who has come to this familiar abode merely to collect his thoughts, the other protagonists are in the throes of tackling their respective personal problems.

The arrival of this very British guest acts as a trigger, spurring them back to life, "taming" them and prompting them to start working together to restore the manor's former beauty and revive their individual quests. The result will be a new lease of life for the Beauvillier estate and each and every one of them living on it.

Seven men from 17 to 70 years old.

All city-dwellers with nothing in common apart from the fact that they are all on the verge of a nervous breakdown. They meet up at a lonely station for an unusual course in the wild that is supposed to get them back on their feet.

Each step in this boot camp, designed by an eccentric and feisty female coach, aims to reveal them to themselves.

The task seems to be a tough one, especially as nothing goes as planned between these men.

LYNX

LYNX

A strange cry echoes through the Jura mountains as winter comes to an end. The sublime silhouette of an Eurasian lynx slips through the beech and fir trees as he calls out to his female companion.

By following the daily life of this couple and their cubs, we discover a whole world close to us and yet so little known. Lynx is an authentic tale in which chamois, eagles, foxes and stoats are witnesses to the secret life of Europe’s largest “big cat”, still an endangered species.

The film reveals the vital role that this discreet predator plays in our forests and the balance it has restored in a fragile environment, but also the difficulties it encounters in a habitat largely occupied by humans.

CHAMBORD

In the early 16th century, King Francis I of France decided to erect his palace on an inhospitable patch of swampy hunting grounds. That daunting architectural feat every year attracts more visitors from all over the world, and provided a stage for key historical events and figures – from Leonardo da Vinci, to Louis XIV and the French Revolution, to World War II. But the true treasure of Chambord is beyond its stone walls, in an expanse of wooded park the size of Paris – its richly varied and exceptional wildlife denizen, living in time to nature's own pulse.

THE RED COLLAR

LE COLLIER ROUGE

Adapted from Jean-Christophe Ruffin's bestseller.

1919. In a little village sweltering in the summer heat in the Berry region of France, a dog howls day and night at a barrack's gates. Inside is a single prisoner: the mutt's master, a man named Morlac.

In the countryside nearby, a young woman waits and hopes. She is exhausted by her labor in the fields, yet seems too well-educated to be a farm worker. Morlac, a hero of the Great War decorated for bravery, is to be tried by an officer, Lantier du Grez, for crimes against the Republic. He faces the death penalty. The judge has just a few days to piece together the story of the accused and announce his sentence. So three characters and, among them, a dog.... who holds the key to the mysterious affair.
